Anthropology in Our Society Theme of Talk by Dr. Voget

The opinion that Anthropology makes a definite contribution to the solution of society's problems was expressed by Dr. F. Voget of the Department of Sociology and Anthropological Society.

Speaking on the topic: "The utility of Anthropology in Contemporary Society," Dr. Voget divided the whole field into two sections: Physical and Cultural Anthropology. He then went on to discuss each section.

In the field of physical anthropology we learn that no race can be pure, and therefore there is no such thing as hereditary race superiority. This deprives racists of their cardinal argument.

Cultural anthropology, which is the study of cultural development, shows us that other societies have evolved their own solutions to social problems which are universal. When we study these solutions, we realize that our own set of social values is not an absolute scale, and instead of ridiculing the other fellow, we take a sympathetic view of his problem and culture.

These attitudes bring a fuller understanding of other groups and of our own society, and improve inter-society relationships. They can also be used to improve intra-society relations. Dr. Voget cited the fact that, during the recent war, the United States Army employed over one hundred anthropologists to solve the problems created by the close proximity of different racial groups within the military framework.

The meeting, which was held in Room 43 of the Arts Building, was the second of the term. It was chaired by Frank Vallee, President of the Society. Vice-President Don Currie thanked the speaker.

500 English Books Tour Canada Soon

Preliminary arrangements are now being made for the exhibition among the universities of Canada, of some 500 books, printed in England, for graduate and undergraduate reading announced Miss Ruth A. Atkinson, Director of Book Exhibitions for the British Council here yesterday.

Miss Atkinson said that she will send three exhibitions out, each to cover a different section of Canada. The Tour will begin about mid-January and end in mid-April, and will probably be at McGill at the end of March or beginning of April.

In addition each exhibition will be split into 2 parts, one section showing those books which fall under the broad classification of Science including medicine and the other section to cover the humanities. These two sections will be exhibited consecutively on the advice of Dr. James J. Talman, Librarian of Western University and Chairman of the Canadian Library Association, Research Library section who thought that 500 different books would take up too much space in the smaller Universities and that students interested in one classification would not be interested in books of the other.

Books in the Science category will include Pure Science, Biology, Botany, Geography, Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Agriculture, Forestry and Medicine. Those of the humanities will include Law, History, Classics and the Ancient world, English, Modern languages, Politics, Philosophy and Dictionaries.

Many of the books to be exhibited are books used in courses given in Canadian Universities and Miss Atkinson said that she believed that the recent devaluation of the pound would allow British books to compete favourably with those published in the U.S. and Canada.

As far as she knows Miss Atkinson said that there is no duty or Tariff on books coming into Canada and that the 8% Federal Tax is not imposed on books for University students.

Miss Atkinson also said that Britain was ready to deliver the goods. Shipments take something like 5 weeks to 2 months with some delay for customs inspection. Book paper unlike newsprint is no longer on ration in Great Britain although there is still a shortage of compositors, binders and cotton for binding.

Fellowship Representative Visits McGill

Miss Catherine Nicoll, Eastern Representative of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, will pay a visit to the Campus next week.

"Cathy," as she is known to her many student friends, has paid frequent visits to McGill, and hence is no stranger to the university. During her stay in Montreal, she plans to spend a couple of days at the Royal Victoria College.

Miss Nicoll was born and educated in China, and has travelled extensively in Canada and the United States. She has been active in youth work, such as summer camps, youth conferences, and has visited many universities on this continent. Last year she spent several months at the university in Kingston, Jamaica. Miss Nicoll is particularly interested in the numerous problems which confront university students.

After a reception on Sunday afternoon, Miss Nicoll will give a short talk at the regular after-church Hymn Sing of the McGill Christian Fellowship.

Dawson Difficulties All Funds Frozen

It was announced last night that all Dawson College Students' Council funds have been frozen until further notice.

The announcement was made in a letter, which was sent to the editor of The Dawson Weekly by Robert M. Taylor, President of the Dawson College Students' Society. The letter read as follows:

"I was forced today to order that all club budgets and expenditures of the Dawson College Students' Council be frozen until further notice. This action was necessitated by the fast-deteriorating financial status of the Students' Society.

"The anticipated notice re the future of Dawson College is not forthcoming until sometime in the late winter. Therefore, McGill has found it necessary to deduct two dollars per student from universal fees, and also to appropriate the profits realized by the Dawson canteen and snack-bar. The Dawson College Students' Society is temporarily in the red. I might recall the fact that Dawson's deficit as at June 30, 1949, was $2,481.61, and that the arrangements concerning universal fees and snack-bar profits were made by the predecessors of the present Students' Council. As yet, we have been unable to find a satisfactory solution to the financial problem. The most apparent means of overcoming our present insolvency is to decrease the number of shows, at which we are at present sustaining a loss of 15 dollars per show, and/or to sell the 35-mm. projectors at fair market price and revert to 16-mm. films in the future. Since such a sale would be of great interest to the Students' Society, a general meeting has been called for Tuesday, November 22nd, in T1. The official notice will appear elsewhere in your issue. For any action to be taken in this matter, we must have an attendance of 300 students. Otherwise, the Council will be forced to proceed as it sees fit.

"A complete review of the finances of the Dawson College Students' Society will be presented. But in the meantime, any constructive suggestions from the student body will be greatly appreciated by the Students' Council."

Novotny Tells IRC of Plight Of Czechoslovakian Students

By HANCOCH BORDAN

"There is no freedom of learning, were the only ones who protested. In Czechoslovakia at the present time" Prof. Jan M. Novotny told about 25 per cent of those who had been students' were sent to forced labour camps," he said.

The Communists immediately took over the universities and their commissars were put in charge to decide which professors and students were to remain and which were to go, he said. This was in spite of the fact that before this all professors had been appointed for life and could not be deposed except by a disciplinary committee composed of their peers," he emphasized.

Although Slavic, the Czech people have always followed in the western traditions, declared Professor Novotny. "I hope that my country will again take its place in the western world," he said.

Paul Olivier, President of the International Relations Club presided.

In addition, he continued, all prospective students must have worked in a youth brigade for a certain period of time and pass an exam to show that he is familiar with the principles of the "peoples democracy." It also helps, he said, if he comes from a working class family.

"At the time that the Communists took over the government of the country," he said, "the students

Parliament Off Rentals Bill Not Debatable

The Model Parliament scheduled for next Thursday night in the Union Ballroom has been cancelled because the wording of the C.C.F. bill slated for attention would preclude any debate and would result in general agreement.

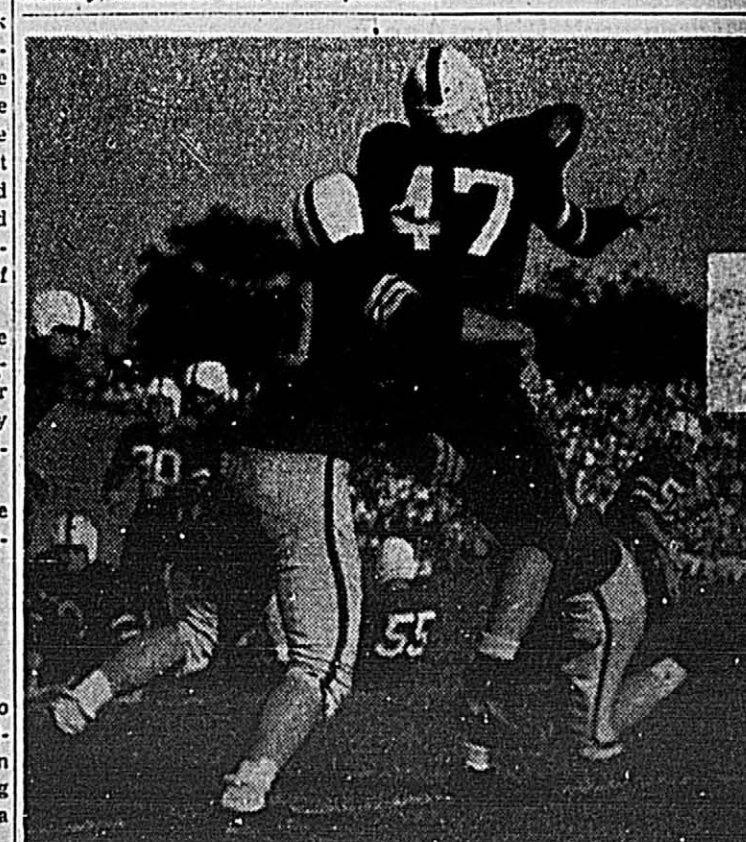

This was the statement of Dave Floyer, chairman of the steering committee in charge of the Parliament. He explained that the all-party committee decided that any debate which would not prove controversial would be of little interest to those concerned.

Two amendments proposed by the Conservative and Liberal parties were also rejected as being unlikely to promote strong debate.

The next Model Parliament will be held on December 15 with the Conservative Party acting as the government and the Labor Progressive Party as the official opposition.

The resolution stated, "Resolved that this House institute legislation to return rental controls to the level of Sept. 1, 1949; and also that as a permanent solution to the rentals problem this government institute a long term subsidized housing program and encourage and assist the efforts of housing co-operatives by guaranteeing long term low interest loans."

Miss Nora Bailey, child psychologist will speak to the Recreation Leadership Course in R.V.C. Gym Monday, November 21st, at 4.15 p.m.

VALOIS (90), FORD (47), MELNICK (30), and THOMPSON (55), who will be seen again in the championship playoff game tomorrow at Varsity Stadium in Toronto.

KEEP THEM SMILING, is the objective of several thousand students who will be in Toronto Saturday to support a winning football team. A roaring throng at the Pep Rally last night made it clear to Vic Obeck and his crew that they've got the solid support of Old McGill.

THE PRIME MINISTER OF COMMUNISM

I believe there are two ways to fight the enemies of freedom in one's own country. One of those ways is to shout about them until we get red in the face and to urge repressive laws, prison terms and concentration camps. In doing so, we might be starting down a road at the end of which we could very well lose the freedom we are trying to protect.

The other way is to proclaim our faith in our free institutions and to proclaim that faith by making those free institutions work to the advantage of the great majority of the community; to proclaim our faith in the brotherhood of man not just in words, but by treating our fellow citizens like brothers; and to proclaim our faith in social justice not just by talking about it but by working to eradicate injustice and exploitation and oppression wherever they may be found.

We should adopt stern measures, very stern measures against those who are proven traitors, those who commit overt acts which amount to infractions of our penal code. Under our system, however, every man is innocent until he is proven guilty and we must be careful not to turn prosecution into persecution because if we do we will be very apt to lose the freedom we are trying to save.

Certain Communist leaders in other countries have said or implied that it is the duty of all Communists to ally themselves with the Soviet Union in the event of another war. In our country, that is or would be treasonable conduct. To deal with such conduct we already have laws with plenty of teeth in them. I do not like the kind of laws that are put in the statute books and then forgotten. That is not the way to maintain respect for the law in a free country.

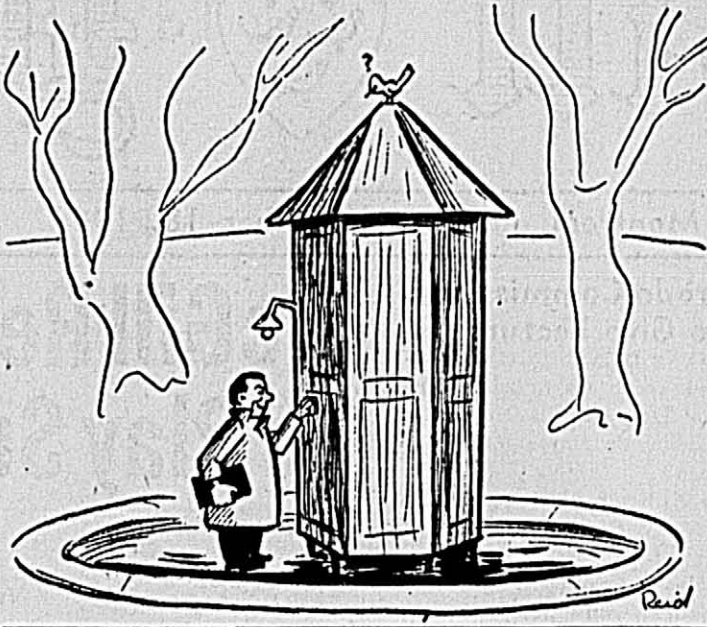

The real truth is that the Communists are not going to be able to do much damage so long as we help to keep the world at peace. Their opportunity would come if we had to have another war.

Within our own country, I am convinced that the main defence against Communism is the maintenance of freedom and the provision of social security and enlarged opportunities for the mass of ordinary people.

So long as we are free to elect our own Parliaments and to choose our own governments; so long as we are free to express our own ideas and to advocate such political and social changes as can be made peacefully; just so long will we be masters of our own destiny.

THE THREE BARES

By MILTON WINSTON

The editor, quietly slipped an assignment into my questioning outstretched hands. Once you have joined the feature staff you take the blither with the saccharine; so I happily dragged myself onto the campus and prepared to interview the Three Bares.

Recalling some ancient history I remembered that four artists once were sent to interview the same trio, and when they had seen, the Three Bares they became so petrified that they are now on display in the Red Path Museum.

However, at this time of year, the unabashed trio did a little winter cleaning. They built a small wooden cabin around their encampment, and proceeded to arm themselves against the oncoming wrath of winter.

Timidly, and with closed eyes, I knocked on their quaint habitation. "Who's there?" a rough voice cried out.

"It's me," said I. "Advance and be recognized," came the retort.

So I advanced and was recognized. "Yeah it's you," the voice said.

Once inside I noticed that the three gentlemen had turned the round pot, that they carried so gingerly above their heads, over and were now playing cards on it. "Trump," screamed one member, and proceeded to beat his head against his stone foot.

Another of the group arose from his position and backing me against the wall, asked if I could play bridge. I denied all accusations, claiming that I was in Arts and studied very hard. But I announced that I played "Fish," if I could find the proper partner.

Their cold-stone faces looked me up and down. They glared at my clothing and smiled cynically. Finally I was formally introduced.

"Mr. Winston," the first one stated, "the man on your left is Nature Boy. The one seating adjacent is Robespierre, and I'm Napoleon." Then they continued with their game.

After awhile they tired of this

Glass Splendor

By MIMI DURANCEAU

One of the most fragile yet colourful collections possessed by McGill is the Syrio-Roman glass donated very recently by Mr. Sydney Sperber, located in the Museum of Divinity Hall. Mr. Sperber, an affable young man in his early thirties, has been interested in collecting ever since he can remember. He is particularly proud of his Roman glass, but rather than derive a selfish enjoyment from it, he prefers to put his items where they can be appreciated by others. The pieces on display at Divinity Hall, which represent various collections, were obtained through the numerous dealers whom he visits frequently. The antiquity of the articles call to mind the splendor and colour of some of history's earliest civilizations, but Mr. Sperber deplored the fact that in the glass cases one cannot really see the shimmering beauty of their myriad of colours.

Mr. Sperber is also a painter, but he devotes more time to collecting than he does to painting. He gained a deep knowledge of all the phases of art by spending many hours in various museums, for he has travelled quite extensively. The objects on display are priceless, but they form only a small part of his total collections. He has a Persian collection from the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth centuries, and also pottery, tiles and bronzes of Persian, Greek, Etruscan and Roman periods. Some pieces of the T'Ang collection, dating from about the 6th century, are on display at the Art Museum, and Toronto also possesses some of his items. In addition to the glass itself, he has also given to McGill two fine volumes on the history of glass. He said that he plans to donate more to McGill as his collections grow.

Origins of Glass
In the case in which the items are exhibited at Divinity Hall, there are excellent descriptions of the origin of glass in the various countries, and of the uses to which the

Canadian Artists

Today in many studios across Canada Canadian artists are creating objects of incomparable beauty. Probably many of them are at this moment roaming the country-side, pallet in hand, capturing the unique beauty of the Canadian outdoors. At the Secretariat of the Les Amis de l'Art some of their works are on display, this week.

Maurice Lebel, who uses a stroke somewhat similar to the school of the illustrious Van Gogh, is represented by eleven oil paintings one of which is "Tulips and Lilacs." On seeing it, one can almost smell the fragrance and is tempted to pluck the flowers from their vase. His other contributions accent the Canadian theme for they convey typical scenes from across the Dominion. "Baie Des Ha Ha" is a pensive landscape study containing both sky, sea and land. However it records more of the painter's mood than that of the scene itself. The landscape, although dull is real, and the sky seems to be laughing rather than the bay. Nevertheless the mood is really there.

In his works one can see his passionate love of the Canadian countryside, for his landscapes hold one transfixed by their reality. In many of them we can almost predict the time of day at which the work was painted. In his "Sous Bois" one lighted foliage reveals a mid-afternoon setting. Maurice Lebel has apparently a great love for the sea, for he paints quaint Maritime harbours, spotted with fishing vessels. His sea-going fancy interpretations are by no means the conventional harbour scenes of the past. They are more modern, indeed, often impressionistic, and sometimes too colourful as "Marine Bonaventure."

In his forest and land scenes he is magnificent; the lack of balance from the point of view of colour is adequately made up for by his excellent lighting which gives the work a realistic feeling of endurance.

Gerard Morisset seems to be trying a series of artistic experiments, sketching in pen on a variety of subjects. Particularly outstanding is his "Le Peuplier Ployant" which possesses the strength of movement and balance for colour. His blue and yellow ones blend to give a feeling of motion. In "La Tempeste De Neiges," a pen etching, he conveys by means of shading the ferocity of the elements.

Stanley Cosgrove is undoubtedly the impressionist; his "Wood Interior," a scene in a forest is done in the most exquisite shades of brown, and his "Still life with fruits" is typical of the new trend in painting.

Robin Watt is outstanding in his portrait of "Mrs. H. M. Yates" which is artistic in stroke and photographic in accuracy, (an excellent combination of blues.)

The exhibition is splendidly rounded out by "Ste. Lucy de Doncaster," a corner of a Quebec Village Street, and "The Danseuses" by Gentile Tondino, a work resembling the "Dancers" of Degas, but unique in form and colouring.

— Frank Bloomstone.

C.U.P. All-star Football Teams Announced Today Redmen Win 6 Positions

Irving, Mitchner, Robillard
Meirowitz, Newman and Valois

Vic Obeck Named Coach

Kington Nov. 18. — (CUP) — The remarkable upsurge of the McGill Redmen to top place in the Senior Intercollegiate Football League has been reflected in the 1949 cup "dream team."

Sports editors from the four colleges around the circuit picked five members of the red raiders from Montreal to their first team. Queen's, Western, and the University of Toronto placed three men each.

The Loop's scoring leader, half back Rocky Robillard of McGill, led his team's contingent into this year's all star team. Other Redmen named to the first squad were end Jim Mitchner, middle Marv Meirowitz, inside Johnny Newman and quarter back Harry Irving.

Robillard, Western's ace half back Jack Parry, and Ironman middle Fraser Mustard of Toronto Varsity were the unanimous choices of all four sports editors. End "Tip" Logan of Queen's missed the unanimous category by a scant vote.

Besides the Mercury-footed Parry, Western placed elongated George Wearing in the centre turn from last year's first squad. Robillard and Logan moved up from last year's second team.

McGill mentor Vic Obeck was named to mastermind the dream team, with Frank Tindall of position and Jack Thompson at inside.

Varsity's sensational colored half back Dick Brown and teammate Bill Danylchuck joined Mustard in the select ranks. Danylchuck tied with Al Lenard of Queen's for one half back spot.

Queen's were represented by Logan, Lenard, and inside Pete Salari.

Western's Thompson and McGill's Newman were tied for one of the inside spots.

Parry, Lenard, Mustard and Newman were the only players to receive Queen's selected coach of the second squad.

The strong finishing Golden Gaels from Kington dominated the second team, placing no less than five men and a coach on the squad.

End Dick Harrison, middle Hal McCahey, inside Hank Simola, centre Jim Charters, and scabbard Jack Sisson were named to the team along with Coach Tindall.

Western placed quarter George Arnott, and middles Ticky Duck and Reg Ort. Duck and McCahey ended up in a dead heat for one of the middle posts.

From Toronto, the editors selected end Jack Grey and half back Bruce Cummings, while half George Valois was the sole Redman to place.

The all stars were selected on a point basis, with three points being allotted for every first team vote and two for every second

McGill Meet Saint Xavier In Final MacTier Cup Game

The McGill rugby squad travels to Antigonish, Nova Scotia today to meet St. Francis Xavier College in a final tilt for the MacTier Cup, emblematic of rugby supremacy in Eastern Canada.

The McGill team was defeated by the Toronto Wanderers in the semi-finals of this series, but because the Wanderers were not able to bear the expense of a trip McGill consented to take over, being next in line.

If the Wanderers had dropped out earlier, U. of T. might have taken over, for the Varsity squad have defeated McGill in their two encounters.

Dave Floyer, last year's captain will replace captain John Glen, who unfortunately will be unavailable at Antigonish, due to a leg injury sustained in last Friday's encounter with Harvard. The team will miss his leadership and hard aggressive playing.

Dave Race will be pack leader of the forwards and will be aided by fellow forward Bob Morgan. Both are from Dawson and have proved to be two of the team's most effective scrum men.

Fullback Gordon MacPherson will be back on the field for the game after having missed the McGill-Wanderer tilt due to an injury received in the Harvard game.

His return will greatly enhance McGill's chance for victory.

The team for Antigonish will be: G. MacPherson, Keleher MacMillan, R. Scott, Floyer (field captain), Creery, Johnstone, Caruthers, K. Scott, R. Morgan, Kent, Bishop.

Saint Paul Halfback En Route to McGill

The Montreal Daily Star (CP) reported last night that Stan Kaluznick 18-year-old halfback with St. Paul College in Winnipeg will attend McGill University next fall.

Kaluznick was earmarked for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who were for a long time the champions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, but he said that he will accept a proposition made by the eastern university's alumni association.

Stan is a 190 pound plunging half and a shifty runner. He led his team to the Provincial championship this year.

Vic Obeck could not be reached for a statement.

Egbert has worked hard for four years to get the top job on the campus... only to find it means more work and less leisure.

One thing he latched onto quickly though was that the best way to stop moaning those leaky-pocket blues was to stow away those spare shekels in a savings account at "MY BANK".

Don't leave them in your jeans... lay aside those extra beans!
